Question about why Incident Report 20-5943 (from 3/3/2020) was labeled as "Non Criminal Domestic Violence"; also submitting videos of another incidence of domestic violence and malicious destruction of property that occurred on 9/28/2019

Dear Officer Trahan,

I was wondering why you labeled Report 20-5943 (attached) as non-criminal domestic violence? Your report describes that multiple officers at BPD viewed and confirmed a video showing my Dad "kicking me approximately twice." My Dad also admitted to punching me once, though I claimed that he punched or attempted to punch me numerous times in the face. The only part of your report that may justify my Dad's actions was him claiming that "I was trying to hack into his TD Bank account" which is 1) not true 2) even if true, would still not qualify as self defense.

From your report it seems like misdemeanor A&B, some form of malicious destruction of property (since he threw a $6000 laptop toward me on the floor), or harassment may have been appropriate charges to recommend.

I don't have the video from 3/3/2020 because my Dropbox account expired. (My former Dropbox account contained a few petabytes of storage of almost entirely public information used for machine learning projects, so they just deleted it after I canceled the subscription.)

However I was able to quickly find 3 videos from 9/28/2019 showing more potential A&B, and malicious destruction of property, or harassment.

In these videos, my Dad immediately ordered me to leave the house without any prior warning (which as far as I know was his right) but didn't give me any time to pack and immediately became violent upon his request. If he didn't want to give me any time to pack, he should have called BPD to escort me out of the house. However he didn't and simply wanted to act crazy/violent/abusive towards me and my Mom.

My Dad was aware that I was recording and said he "didn't care" so I wasn't violating wiretapping laws. The videos show my Mom asking my Dad several times to "stop being violent" (in Chinese), shows him shoving both me and my Mom, and shows him destroying my property instead of allowing me to collect my things then leave.

I wanted to report these incidents because one of the criteria for a harassment prevention order is having 3 incidents of harassment/abuse that I could refer to. I realize that naming me as a victim on 5/7/2023 would have suggested additional less severe charges against my Dad than what he's currently facing for his alleged actions against my Mom, but nonetheless I think my Dad's action

I'm also concerned that BPD may have given my Dad preferential treatment due to my disabilities since BPD has only labeled him the victim but never me, including the incidence from 5/7/2023 when his actions against me may have also qualified for misdemeanor A&B as well as harassment.

To contrast the incidences on 9/28/2019, 3/2/2020, and 5/7/2023 with the incidence leading to me being charged with A&B with DW and A with DW on 6/23/2020 (Report 20-15981-AR; attached), my Dad caused more physical harm and possibly conducted more threatening behavior each of the 3 incidences but I was never named a victim. He also destroyed my property in the first 2 incidents and definitely was more harassing in each of the 3.

On the 6/23/2020 incident, I was alleged to have "poked" him once on the right arm with a wrench in order to retrieve 2 unlawfully intercepted packages from the USPS Mailbox. I was also alleged to have waved a kitchen knife (the dull kind designed to grind food into pieces; not a sharp blade that could actually stab anyone) around in my efforts to recover stolen mail. BPD claims to have collected 28 10mg Ambien (zolpidem tartrate) tablets as evidence, but I never "possessed" or saw both the unopened package itself or any content of it, so I actually have no idea what my Dad gave to BPD.

Thanks so much for reading my questions,
Bo
